Union County Torah Center

Doors Open in Westfield

A Jewish Outreach Center (JOC) will celebrate the opening of its new Westfield center this Sunday with a Family Sabbath service at 9 a.m. at Temple Beth Torah, 170 Elm Street, Westfield.

A joint effort between the JOC and Congregation Beth Torah in Westfield, the center is located on the lower level of the synagogue building. The JOC, based in Scotch Plains, is the area's oldest Jewish outreach organization and is dedicated to providing a variety of programs and services for families, couples, and individuals of all ages.

The center will offer a range of programs and services, including educational classes, family activities, and individual and group counseling. In addition, the center will have a Jewish Day School for children aged 2 to 5.

Temple Beth Torah has a long history of serving the Jewish community in Westfield. The synagogue was founded in 1952 and has been a cornerstone of the community ever since. Over the years, it has become an integral part of the fabric of the community, providing a space for prayer, learning, and socializing.

The opening of the new Jewish Outreach Center in Westfield is a significant milestone for the community. It marks the continued growth and expansion of Jewish outreach services in the area, as well as the deepening commitment of the Jewish community to supporting one another.

Fletch Wiley to Conclude Music Clinics at Evangel

Fletch Wiley, a composer and conductor, will conclude his annual music clinics at Evangel University this month. The clinics offer students the opportunity to learn from a world-renowned musician and to gain valuable experience in their field.

The clinics are part of a larger effort by Evangel University to provide its students with a top-notch education in music. The university is committed to providing a high-quality education that prepares its students for success in their chosen careers.

Fletch Wiley is a prolific composer and conductor who has worked with some of the world's most renowned musicians. His music has been performed by symphony orchestras around the world, and his compositions have won numerous awards and honors.

The conclusion of the music clinics is a significant event for Evangel University and its students. It marks the end of a successful academic year and sets the stage for a new one.
